CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

The Jones Meeting Without Jones—Mahone Dined—Charlie Wheeler Wine—The Fair Next Week—A Quiet Wedding.

A Quiet Wedding.

Mrs. Amelia Lindsay, widow of the late G. W. Lindsay, of Cadiz, was married Tuesday evening, in this city, to Mr. John S. Whittinghill, a prominent dry goods merchant of Madisonville. The wedding was a very quiet affair, and occurred at the residence of Mr. Chas. M. Meacham. Mrs. Lindsay arrived in the city the day before, it was supposed on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Meacham. Mr. Whittinghill arrived from Madisonville Tuesday, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Nina, and later in the day his brother, Rev. Dexter G. Whittinghill, of New Orleans, and his nephew, Mr. Hopewell, reached the city. Armed with a marriage license Mr. Whittinghill repaired to Mr. Meacham's residence about 9 o'clock and in the presence of only a few relatives of the contracting parties the ceremony that united them was said by Rev. D. G. Whittinghill. The wedding party, consisting of the relatives of the groom and the son and daughter of the bride, Charlie Lindsay and Miss Myrtle Lindsay, left the 10 o'clock p. m. train for Madisonville.

The wedding was a complete surprise to the friends of the parties here and in their respective towns, as they had taken pains to keep their intentions a profound secret.

The Fair Next Week.

AM that is needed to insure the complete success of the fair next week is a continuation of the present fine fall weather. The farming season has practically closed except the seeding of wheat and the country people will have the opportunity to patronize the fair as it deserves. There will be nothing left undone to make it attractive, and the Secretary has assurance that all of the exhibits will be well filled. The exhibits in every branch are expected to be better than ever before and the various classes will be very attractive. There will be quite a fine display of thoroughbred poultry and some lively competition for the premiums in this department. The fair will begin on next Thursday and last three days. Make your preparations to attend and help out the fair.

Gen. Mahone Dead.

Gen. Wm. Mahone, ex-United States Senator from Virginia, died in Washington October 8, aged 69 years. He was a distinguished Confederate General and after the war became the leader of the readjuster movement in Virginia. He was elected to the Senate in 1881, as a readjuster, but became a Republican and his vote gave the Republicans control of the Senate. He was once quite wealthy, but died poor. He was in Washington on a visit when he was paralyzed September 30.

Two Petty Fines.

Business has been quiet in County Court circles this week. Only two cases having "shown up." Tom Simpson got distinctly drunk and mistaking another man's horse for his own, rode him off. Complaint was soon made and defendant had to pay $1 and costs for his little mistake. Tom Mumford, col. ad apples belonging to another, without the necessary "leave, consent, etc." and had to pay the penalty—$5 and costs. He was fined for trespass.

Charlie Wheeler Wins.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct 9.—The court of appeals rendered a decision in the case of Wheeler vs. Commonwealth, from Paducah, which was a contest over the office of city attorney. The court decides that the city council ruled properly in adopting the Reed method for counting a quorum of its members, and that the election of Charles K. Wheeler, as city attorney, was valid.

The Assessors At Work.

Following are the deputy assessors who are assessing the property of the county for this year. The assessment having been begun Sept. 15th:

District No. 1, I. B. Boyd and W. B. Pico. District No. 2, W. T. Hight and Pount Alder. District No. 3, Wm. Henderson and E. W. Henderson. District No. 4, H. V. Beathitt and W. H. Ryan. District No. 5, Assessor Jno. B. Everett.

The Dover Fair.

The Dover, Tenn., fair is on this week and the meeting promises to be of more than usual interest to farmers and stock breeders. The exhibition of fine stock is said to be good and racing is an important feature. The fair closes to-morrow. Several from this city are in attendance and Lafayette is largely represented.

WAITING FOR SAM.

The Meeting Under Headway But Sam Jones Hadn't Come Yesterday.

Evangelists Stewart and Culpepper have been conducting the Tabernacle meeting three times a day since last Sunday. Rev. Sam Jones was looked for Wednesday night, but up to yesterday he had not arrived. It was learned that he went from Bowling Green Monday to Cartersville, Ga., but it was not known what called him home so suddenly. His assistants here are looking for him back on every train, and he may have come last night. If not he is expected at any time.

Mr. Stewart's suffering from a sore throat and will have to leave as soon as his chief arrives. The meeting is largely attended but nothing much has been accomplished in the way of actual results. Everything though is in readiness for stirring times as soon as Sam Jones arrives.

This delay is likely to prove troublesome to the fair next week if the meeting is continued longer than Thursday, and the chances are that it will hardly be over by that time.

Had His Leg Taken Off.

Mr. Jno. T. Young, a prominent farmer at Olmstead, Ky., has had his left leg amputated below the knee as the result of an old injury received in a runaway accident sixteen years ago. The bone became diseased and threatened his life.

Whipped His Wife.

Dr. Joel Parker, of Sebree, Ky., has been put in jail at Dixon on a charge of cruelly beating his wife and threatening to kill her, while crazed with drink.

Richards & Co's Opening.

The fall opening of Messrs. Richards & Co., which began Wednesday and continued throughout Thursday, was a most gratifying success. Wednesday was the best day they have ever had since they have been in business. Crowds of people thronged the store and all of them seemed to have plenty of money. The store never looked prettier. The handsome fall goods were most artistically displayed and the entire interior was a marvel of attractiveness. The show windows also were the admiration of all passers-by.

Their stock for the season is the largest they have ever bought. In cloaks, fur caps, plush jackets and capes and wraps of all kinds the ladies cannot fail to be pleased.

Dress goods are especially hand some, in crepons, molairs, boucles, storm serge, silks, brocade satins, figured taffets, etc., while the spangled and jeweled trimmings, jewel buttons and the like fill the ladies with admiration. All kinds of notions and fancy goods are found in great variety. The millinery department of course attracts all of the ladies. This room is in charge of Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Ravlin and several assistants who use every endeavor to please in their line.

The carpet room up stairs is chock full of the newest styles in moquettes, axminsters, body and tapestry rugs, silks, ingrain, linoleums, matting, Turkish and Smyrna rugs, wiltons, furs, etc.

Their shoe department is a leading feature and they have a fine line of shoes for men, women and children. The fall trade is now on and their ten salesmen are kept in a rush.

Fighting Positions Offered.

A KENTUCKIAN representative called on Prof. J. F. Draughon, of Draughon's Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn., one day last week and was shown a large number of letters from business men all over the country, just received, desiring to secure the services of graduates of that popular institution. There is now hardly a day in the year that Prof. Draughon is not called upon to furnish a business house with such information. The college has received 67 students during the past month and now has a tremendous patronage, nearly every student in the union being represented and this county has sent a number of young men and several ladies recently, all of whom have progressed rapidly. Young gentlemen and ladies contemplating a course at this celebrated business college would do well to write for catalogue at once.

Common Grades Go This Week.

The tobacco sales this week were made up almost exclusively of common leaf and lugs. The market on these grades was firm, with good demand. Sales amounted to less than 100 hogheads, receipts also being light. The '94 crop has nearly all been sold and the various warehouses are now ready for the new crop, which will begin to move in a few weeks. Loose buyers are also getting ready for business.

Paducah's full registration is 2,938—1,228 Democrats, 1,295 Republicans and 515 scattering.

WAVE OF PROSPERITY.

IT IS SWEEPING OVER HOPKINSVILLE WITH RESISTLESS FORCE.

Old Landmarks Disappearing and New Buildings Going Up—The Old Montgomery Mansion—Several New Warehouses—A Wholesale Grocery.

ONE by one the old landmarks of the early Hopkinsville are disappearing, and soon there will remain nothing to remind the old inhabitant of the town in which he was born. The workmen are now engaged in tearing down the old Montgomery house, which was in its day the finest house in Hopkinsville. It is situated on Main street, between 10th and 11th, and for many years has been used for offices for tobacco men. The house was built by Dr. Montgomery in 1847 at a cost of $10,000. It is, including a basement story, three stories high. Wide stone steps lead up to the piazza hallway in the second story. This hall is very wide and roomy, and in the rear end steps lead above and below to the other floors. On either side there were two large rooms connected by partition doors. This arrangement was the same in the upper story, making eight large rooms, besides the rooms in the basement and the two immense halls. In front the portico was supported by Ionic columns as big around as a large barrel and corrugated from top to bottom. Of late years the whole place has been covered with the debris of a past age of architecture, and while appeared as wooden eyesores, used for whitening pots for those lounging about them. It is said the building of this mansion, which originally occupied the whole square, broke Dr. Montgomery. At any rate the property passed into other hands and after being put to various uses was purchased by Buckner & Woodbridge and converted into a warehouse. The entire square, 32 feet back from Main, was covered with the warehouse, leaving the old house, fronted, flanked by the wooden gables of the brick warehouse behind. In the old residence the Buckners and Woodbridges succeeded Buckner & Woodbridge in its ownership, have had their offices and several commission men have used the place for some time. For four or five years the house has been the polling place for district No. 4, and it was last used for this purpose on October 1st, when the registration was held. The work of tearing away the walls is now well under way. The brick are being cleaned off and will be used in the new business block to take its place. The stone lintels and window sills will also be used on the sides, when the new building is completed there will be nothing else to remind the passer-by of the stately old mansion that was a palace in its day, nearly half a century ago. In the yard just north of the doorway the time the house was built. One of these was an elm, which was nearly four feet in diameter and towered far above the tallest buildings. It has been taken down and the work of digging up the stump is one of the most serious problems that will confront the contractor who is to build the new block. The great trunk of the tree was sawed into meat blocks and several parties were supplied with these enormous souvenirs. The contract calls for the block to be completed by Dec. 25, and the work is being pushed with all dispatch. The old family building will soon exist only in the memory of those who stood by and watched it rise in its grandeur and its imposing proportions.

By one the old wooden structures are being torn away and replaced by improved iron bridges. The wooden bridge had its good features. Correct as it was, it afforded a convenient shelter when travelers were caught in sudden showers, and many a driver has whipped his team into a quick trot to reach the bridge before the rising cloud emptied its contents on the highway along which he traveled. The walls were great places for posting bills, signs and notices of all kinds. Protected from sun and rain these papers would remain indefinitely. Passers-by would stop to read them and the bridge became the most important point on the road. Scribbles who are always seeking public places in which to write their names, found the bridge well suited to their purposes. The birds made their nests under the roof and the fish in the water below sought the shady places underneath. But all good things must come to an end. The new iron bridges span the streams like great spider-webs, and the low railings offer no inducements to the bill-toe or even to the canvas back. To lack his card to the solid iron. In a few more years the last wooden bridge in Christian county will have gone the way of the Indian and the buffalo and up-to-date substitutes will have taken the places of these cherished old friends of the traveler.

ANOTHER SIGN OF PROSPERITY.

Gaither & West are preparing to erect a new building. They have already purchased a lot for the purpose. They have for several years occupied the Latham warehouse, but will move into one of their own as soon as it is completed. The lot is on the east side of the L. & N. railroad, between 13th and 14th, and is a very eligible and desirable one. The plans are now being prepared and the contract will be let at once. The building will be of brick and will be 128 x 165 feet and three stories high. It will be arranged especially for the tobacco business and will be one of the best and most commodious houses in the city.

ABERNATHY WILL ALSO ENLARGE.

Mr. H. H. Abernathy is going to enlarge his warehouse by another season and is having drawings made of an addition to his house on Ninth street. It will be 65 x 170 feet and two stories high, and will cover the corner of the corner of Ninth and Liberty streets. This demand for more room is one of the surest indications of the solid growth of the Hopkinsville tobacco market. The boom has come to stay.

MATRIMONIAL.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

J. S. Whittinghill to Mrs. Amelia Lindsay.
Allie W. Bowling to Carrie V. Renshaw.
Jas. M. McCord to Lena Hamby.
Jas. Duncan to Mildred Hight.
COLORED.
Frank Gray to Alice Ratcliffe.
Henry Glushko to Mary Greenwade.
Monroe Chappell to Mary Winn.
Frank Tandy to Lula Henry.
Jas. Hopson to Lilly Johnson.

DEATHS.

HAMBY.—Mr. Finis Hamby, deputy county assessor, died at his home a few miles north of the city Wednesday of typhoid fever, aged 28 years. Mr. Hamby had been sick for several weeks. He leaves a wife and four children.

COLORED.

HUTCHINS.—A 5-year-old son of Cy Hutchins died in the city Monday of flux.

Circuit Court Matters.

All of the commonwealth cases set for this week were continued until next week and civil matters have been claiming the attention of the court for the past few days.

The celebrated case of Jessup vs. Brane consumed three days of court, the jury bringing in a verdict for plaintiff Wednesday.

Forbes & Bro. resulted in a verdict for defendant.

Jas. A. Boyd vs. W. E. Boyd, verdict for plaintiff.

Sam Ridd vs. Austin B. Johnson, verdict for defendant.

C. F. Miles vs. Geo. Lewis, verdict for plaintiff.

A number of cases were continued until the next term for various reasons.

Convict Captured.

Buford McKnight, conv. sent to the penitentiary for this county in October, 1894, for two and a half years for grand larceny, escaped from the Eddyville pen a few weeks ago and was captured in Henderson by Chief Walker of that city, Tuesday. He was returned to the prison Wednesday to finish out his term.

L. E. Orey, of Kuttawa, made a general assignment. He was engaged in a general merchandise business. Assets about $2,000; liabilities, $5,000.

A NEW GROCERY STORE.

About the first of next month Mr. W. T. Cooper will open up a large wholesale and retail grocery store in the new business block opposite the Court square. Mr. Cooper will go into business on a large scale and his extensive acquaintance, both in the city and country, and his high standing as a reliable and successful business man, will insure him a good share of business from the start. He is one of the younger set of business men who have done so much to put Hopkinsville out of the rut in which the mossbacks kept it for so long, and bring about the era of prosperity and good times.

Mr. Cooper has faith in the town and will show his faith by his works. He will be assisted in the business to be started by his brother, Mr. J. E. Cooper. We predict for the house a successful career and a full measure of prosperity.

THE COVERED BRIDGE.

The covered bridge is one of the objects that is fast passing away and will soon be a thing of the past. One

STOVES EARN DOLLARS.

This Sounds Funny, But It Is True
Just the Same.

Uncle Sam Adds to His Wealth Year
After Year Through the Carelessness of Citizens Who Waste
Money in Stoves.

Special Washington Letter.

Stoves of all kinds make money for the government. The parlor stove, the sitting-room stove, the stove in the bedroom and the big burner in the large hall of the biggest mansion in town; all of them make money for Uncle Sam on the principle that "a penny saved is a penny earned." These stoves "save" money for the government by destroying the notes upon which are printed the "promise to pay," which makes greenbacks and national bank notes worth their face value.

Throughout the length and breadth of the land there is no method of saving money more rapid than the custom of hiding it away in an unused sitting-room stove during the summer-time. When the fire is lighted in the autumn the cash goes up in the smoke, and then the owner makes application to have the ashes redeemed. The chief of the redemption division says that not less than one hundred such cases are submitted to him every fall. Sometimes the remains are not too far consumed for identification, but as a rule this method of destroying money is found to be singularly effective. There were received recently at the treasury $120 in the shape of a small quantity of ashes packed into a thimble, from Texas. The woman who owned the $120 had drawn the sum from bank and deposited it in a stove for safe keeping, with the usual result. Unfortunately, the ashes are indistinguishable from any other ashes, and so she will lose the entire amount and it is probably all she had in the world.

The dear old parlor stove, which keeps the rising red warm during the winter nights, is the "money" stove. It has sold good-night for the hundredth time, and after Julia has gone to bed with much soothing rocking in her arms for sitting up so late—the red-hot old parlor stove is a considerable source of income to the United States treasury, though the contribution to the fund accumulated by its means are invariably most unwilling ones. The parlor stove is unused for many months, and one of the members of the family knows that it is the custodian of a treasure in it. The only one who knows the fact is never present when the first fire is started in October, "just to take chill the off of the room" when company is expected. And the parlor money is all consumed.

Uncle Sam promises to pay in coin the amount printed on his paper money, and he is able and willing to do so. He issues the money for the payment of debts, the government is under obligations to redeem it in coin. When it is burned, Uncle Sam is relieved of all obligations and is therefore just so much ahead.

When cars are burned in railroad accidents large sums of paper money are consumed. There was an accident one day in Kentucky when two trains met in a tunnel, one of them loaded with passengers and the other a freight, carrying coal and iron. For thirty hours the wreck burned and much was lost. It was estimated that the iron was melted and flowed like water. In the express car of the passenger train was a safe with $1,000 cash in it besides a lot of jewelry. It was all paper money and was reduced to ashes. Whenever a railroad disaster occurs five hundred dollars are lost, and the express car is consumed. Now an express car almost invariably carries a safe with more or less money in it, among other valuables. The safe, unless it is one for transporting government money, is apt to be of the portable kind and not fireproof. Thus it is in almost every railway accident for some of these safes to arrive at the treasury with its cash contents in the shape of more or less hopeless ashes.

But the government has no desire to take advantage of these disasters. Expresses are employed who business is to redeem as much burned money as can possibly be identified. It is wonderful how these skillful men can identify a bill by a little piece of charred paper, or a take a few little pieces of broken and crumbling ashes so hopelessly destroyed that to an ordinary inexperienced eye they would be worth no more than a burned cigar, and from them rehabilitate a bill which may be redeemable for thousands of dollars in bright new bills at the paying teller's desk.

All that is required is sufficient evidence that the original is the same as the one really destroyed. Moments after your finger nail has been redeemed for the face value of the bill is it really a matter of chance. If it is merely a matter of chance, it would be well to suffer for the benefit of the government.

case is that of a bank note. It is absolutely essential that the bank should be determined, else payment cannot be made. But let the bit presented show the name of the bank, its number, or even a portion of one of the officers' signatures, and it goes. Until very recently portions of notes sent in have been redeemed on the discount principle—nine-tenths of a ten-dollar bill bringing nine dollars, and so on—but now the law is that the smallest portion is redeemed at the full face value. If only it is accompanied by satisfactory affidavits as to the loss of the remainder. Some few attempts have been made to swindle the treasury in this way by false affidavits, but the department believes that it has always discovered them. Such trickery is rather discouraging to the officials when the government means to be honest.

DISCOVERING HER LOSS.

est; but the work of the experts is always conscientious and earnest in the efforts to save the people from losses by misfortune.

During the civil war the government issued $447,000,000 in small notes. They were for $5, $10, $25 and 50 cents each, and were commonly called "shinplasters" in those days. The records of the treasury department show that more than $1,000,000 of this currency was never sent to the treasury for redemption, and Uncle Sam was just that much ahead in the transaction. It is presumed that nearly all of it was destroyed in various ways during the war.

It is estimated that the government gains a little over 1 per cent. on all of its issues of paper currency by contraction in various ways. The stoves of the country play an important part, but there is a great deal of money in paper hoarded every year by persons who die without revealing its whereabouts and much of it is never found. Some of this shape are often dug up on the persons of corpses, examined and deposited with a pocketbook filled with greenbacks. The latter were sent to the treasury here for redemption, which did not prove a very pleasant task for the experts in the redemption division. Nearly all of them are ladies.

The greatest gain to the government was made from the fractional currency of war times, mentioned above. The first issue of these small notes was made in 1863 and of the issue notes then put forth nearly one-half—more than 45 per cent., accurately speaking—has never been asked payment for. The same thing is true of 90 per cent. of the 10-cent notes, 90 per cent. of the 5-cent notes and 11 per cent. of the 20-cent notes. It is shown by the figured treasury total of the $20,000,000 worth of these little notes first issued more than $4,000,000 still remains outstanding, and it will probably never be presented for redemption.

While the government gains by reason of the losses sustained by individuals in the destruction of paper money, the treasury is slightly depleted by the wearing away of gold coin. Every gold piece of course alloyed, for, as is well known, gold is such a soft metal that it could not be used for money without amalgamation with baser metals. The gold in the vaults of the treasury department lies untouched for months, and some of it for years, encased in small canvas bags. With every change of a national administration a new treasure is deposited, and every dollar is counted, so that the outgoing treasurer can receive receipts from his successor showing that his accounts are correct. It is a singular and commendable fact that treasurers of the United States have been exceptionally honest and capable. On one occasion, in 1888, when the treasury cash was counted, three pennies were missing in a sum total of hundreds of millions of dollars. These pennies were afterwards found on the floor of one of the vaults. They had fallen out of an old and worn-out canvas bag. Although the coin is seldom handled, the government loses something every time by the friction of the gold, but the loss is almost infinitesimal, as compared with the gains which are made on its issues of paper money.

SMITH D. FRY.

Lincoln Tablet at Gettysburg.
The act of congress to establish a national military park at Gettysburg, Pa., contained an appropriation for a suitable bronze tablet, containing on it the address delivered by President Abraham Lincoln, at Gettysburg, Nov. 19, 1863, on the occasion of the dedication of the national cemetery at that place. Provision was made for a pedestal. The duty of having this tablet made was devolved upon the secretary of war, and Secretary Lamont has instructed Col. John M. Wilson, corps of engineers, in charge of public buildings and grounds, to see to the prompt execution of the statutory provision, and Col. Wilson is now making the necessary arrangements.

Pay of Naval Officers.
The American navy has six rear admirals, each having a salary of $4,000. The commodore receive $5,000, the captain $4,500, the commander $3,500, the lieutenant commander $2,500.

TURNING THE TABLES.

The Unfortunate Lawyer and His Client, the Nurse.

The extent to which lawyers can exercise their imagination when pleading in behalf of their clients is almost beyond belief; but sometimes the tables are turned in a very unexpected fashion.

On one occasion, says the Florida Times-Union, Mr. Swan was engaged in presenting the case of a woman who petitioned the court to grant her a judicial separation from her husband, a workman, and urged that as she was in extreme poverty she was entitled to alimony according to her husband's means.

With a voice broken in its pathos the lawyer dilated on the imperative necessity of the case, declaring that his client was utterly destitute, not having a mattress to lie upon, and not possessing the means to purchase a crust of bread.

When the evidence had been heard the judge, who well knew the counsel's unlimited powers of exaggeration, turned to the appellant and addressed to her a few questions.

"Have you, then, no occupation?"

"Yes, my lord! I am a nurse," was the incautious reply.

"And where are you employed?"

"I am at Mr. Swan's," she answered, indignantly, pointing to her counsel.

It was with the greatest diffidence that the judge refrained from joining the shout of laughter with which this admission was hailed.

FEMININE VANITY.

It Crops Out Even Among Women Behind the Bars.

Vanity in a female prisoner would be merely laughable if it were not so sad to behold. It is, however, the one touch of nature which proves the human kinship, and there is perhaps some hope for even these poor, degraded creatures, if they are thus assuaged by such harmless emotions. Prison wretches, says the North American Review, would be perpetually busy if they checked every attempt on their behalf to be charged to adopt the last fashionable coiffure. "Fringes" are "going out," perhaps, in general society, but they are still amazingly popular in prison. Criminals will trim their hair as it pleases them, and the wisest disciplinary affects to see nothing of the fringes. In the same way, when chignons were in vogue, the female felons whose locks escaped the prison scissors and were long enough to fold over a pad of oakum. The languent wig, with which some prisoners will twist and turn their unbecoming uniform into some faint notion of the fashions of the day might have earned these artists good wages in a dressmaker's atelier. I have seen painters' assistants and polished waiters draped or tied back dress improvers manufactured out of whalebone or horse hair; no doubt when the present "bell" skirt is fading out of fashion it will be largely patronized in jail. The craze for personal adornment leads women to skin the grease off their scanty allowance of soap, and they plaster their hair. I once knew an aged prisoner who was caught scraping the dust from the red brick cell wall to serve her as rouge.

ARMOR IN MODERN USE.

English Officers in Foreign Service to Protect Themselves.

In discussing the modern use of armor by officers and men in the foreign "little wars" of today, an English scoutmaster, as reported by London Tit-Bits, says: "I give you my assurance that an immense number of the officers of our army and navy who go on foreign service, especially when on the little wars, are expected to provide themselves with certain easily recognized protections."

"These, mind you, are well-known articles of trade to the parties. The commonest and most useful type of these protections consists of five but beautifully tempered single chains, incased in soft leather, which run along the shoulders, down the outer side of the arms and over certain parts of the body. These can either be sewn into a particular uniform they can be adjusted separately and put on like harness. The most valuable of all chains, in connection with accoutrements, are those which guard the head, and in cases where the regulation cap or helmet is not sufficiently protected in this way, specially made chains are sewn inside the same and covered by the lining."

Smoking in Court.

Commenting on the fact that not long ago a pastor of a church in the White-chapel district in London announced from the pulpit that in future his hearers might smoke their pipes during service if they chose, H. Independence Belge says there is nothing so very strange about that. In the Mexican courts of law, it says, the smoking of cigars is sanctioned by hoary custom; there one may often see a prisoner puffing away at the fragment of weed while answering the questions put to him by the judge, and the latter serenely adds to the general smoking. Mexican teachers reward their diligent pupils by giving them permission to smoke cigars or cigarettes during school hours, and whenever the worthy pedagogues are in good humor the schoolroom is thick with smoking. Smoking begets thirst hence on the teacher's desk stands a huge tin filled with "pulque," the national beverage, to refresh the tutor and tutee.

American Extravagance.

It is no wonder that foreigners scoff at the whims of rich Americans when one hears of such a piece of extravagance as is here related: Lady Herford, formerly the duchess of Marlborough, who was born here in the United States and who married a rich New Yorker, who afterwards died, has just returned from a trip with her husband, Lord Herford. They traveled a way off alone into Norway, paid four thousand dollars for a fishing stream and caught two fish. As it is Lady Herford's money, the devotion must be on her side of the house.

Doctors Say;

Bilious and Intermittent Fevers which prevail in miasmatic districts are invariably accompanied by derangements of the Stomach Liver and Bowels.

The Secret of Health. The liver is the great "driving wheel" in the mechanism of man, and when it is out of order, the whole system becomes deranged and disease is the result.

Do You Suffer

From indigestion, sour stomach, headache, flatulency, distress after eating?

Or is it a case of lost appetite, want of energy, weakness, debility?

Are you nervous, restless, sleepless, worn out in body and in mind?

Have you pains in the back, side, head, arms, shoulders, chest?

Are you filled with malice—allusion, complexion, coated tongue, a hoarse, dry cough, chills and fever?

THE COURIER-JOURNAL'S WORK.

The following able editorial is a fair sample of the excellent work the Courier-Journal is doing for the Democratic ticket:

Bill Bradley's thugs are getting desperate, as they realize that the people of Kentucky do not propose to turn over the state to negro rule or to those allied with the party that keeps our penitentiaries crowded with convicts. At Manchester last Friday an outrage was perpetrated that is set forth in the following special: "Great indignation prevails all over Clay county, over the treatment of Prof. W. F. Hinkle, a young school teacher, who attempted to answer the speech of Col. W. O. Bradley here Friday night. Col. Bradley had just finished a long speech, when Hinkle arose to answer him. Hinkle was knocked down and was badly beaten. Then he was arrested on the order of the Republican ex-convict County Judge Parker. Knives and pistols were drawn, but Hinkle was never allowed to say a word, and was carted off and locked up. He has been tried by Parker, who put him under $1,000 bond to keep the peace for a year."

The Democratic City Committee of Louisville, made up of the newly elected committeemen in the 129 precincts, met in convention and nominated a full ticket this week and adopted resolutions endorsing the whole Democratic State ticket. The speakers declared that Louisville would go Democratic in spite of the opposition of the Courier-Journal and Post to the head of the ticket. The ticket is composed of first-class men, nominated without any sort of dissimulation, and the situation in Louisville is greatly improved. With a registered majority the city ought to go Democratic.

There are four or five single standard Democrats in Hopkinsville who are said to be determined to withhold their support from Hardin, and one or two of them have said in their wrath that they would vote for Bradley. We cannot and will not believe that a single one of them will do it when it comes to the scratch. They have about them a few object lessons that ought to deter any thinking Democrat from changing his politics in this enlightened community. Such slops have not paid in the past and will not pay in the future.

The Republican managers are figuring on 10,000 majority for Bradley in the Fifth and 12,000 in the Eleventh districts, and profess to believe that Hardin cannot overcome 22,000 majority in the other districts. Bradley's majority in those two districts will not exceed 15,000, and the First and Second districts alone will over come that lead. Bill Bladder will have the wind let out of him Nov. 5.

Editor Ben D. Ringo has gone into the fight for the legislature in Ohio county with a determination to win, and has taken the stump against his three opponents—C. M. Barnett, Republican; J. P. Miller, Populist, and W. M. Lakin, Prohibitionist. The county is close but the Democrats are confident of electing Mr. Ringo, who would be one of the brainiest men in either house if he should be sent to Frankfort.

Ovensboro Democrats did not burst any blood vessels in getting their vote registered. The figures show 1080 Dem., 831 Republican, 17 Proponents and 236 non-committals. The non-committals are probably not expected to scratch, but even with these the city will be closer than it has ever been before.

The Court of Appeals has denied the motion for a rehearing in the bank tax cases. Judges Pryor, Grace, Hazelrigg and Eastin concurred and Judges Lewis, Paynter and Guffy dissented. The decision greatly benefits the State at the expense of the cities.

The Democrats carried Chattanooga Tuesday, electing Geo. W. Ochs mayor and five of the eight aldermen. The city went Republican last fall by 1,250 majority.

There are just four of them—Waterson, Whalen, Ward and Winchester. Atherton and Knott don't count.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Wages in Japan are exceedingly low, and, together with the skill and perseverance of the Japanese, constitute an important factor in the commercial affairs in eastern Asia. The tailor who makes clothing after the European style receives the highest pay; his average is 25 cents per day. Next comes the stone-cutter, with 19 cents; carpenter, joiner, smith, with 17 cents; printer, 15 cents; field hands, male, 10 cents; female, 3 cents per day. Silk weavers are given board by the employers and $2.70 monthly. They work from twelve to sixteen hours, and, as there is no Sunday in Japan, the work days are not less than 350 in the year. The exports exceed the imports of Japan by about $10,000,000 annually.

THE EDITORS GIVE THEIR IMPRESSIONS OF HOPKINSVILLE.

Nice Things Said About "The Pearl of the Kentucky"—The Boys All Liked the Way We Showed them the Best Town in Kentucky

Right royalty indeed did the good people of the pretty little city of Hopkinsville treat the members of the Kentucky Press Association, which held its annual session in that place last week. The fact that the open heart could suggest, nor willing hands could carry out, was left undone in making the two hundred or more visitors fully enjoy themselves. The city was there, and for two days they fully availed themselves of the privileges and pleasures bestowed upon them.—Dover News.

Hopkinsville established a new record for generous, open-handed hospitality by its entertainment of 160 members and accompanying ladies of the Kentucky Press Association last week. The social features of the annual convention began with a beautiful reception and ball at the justly celebrated Hotel Latham Monday night, at which the beauty and hospitality of the thriving little metropolis gave the visiting editors and their fair companions a cordial welcome.

Hopkinsville is a thrifty city of nearly 7,000 population, the county seat of Christian county, and the commercial and shipping center of a prosperous section of Kentucky. It is a great tobacco center, and this crop alone puts into circulation upward of $1,000,000 a year in the immediate vicinity. Numerous educational institutions of a high order and a delightful social atmosphere combine with commercial advantages to make it a desirable residence city.—Lexington Leader.

The trip from start to finish was a glorious one, and no doubt the editors and their wives felt better after having had the outing. We were royally entertained at Hopkinsville, at Chattanooga and at Atlanta, and to all these places and people and to that generous and ever accommodating L. & N. R. we are deeply indebted, as well as the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis road.—Aurora Advocate.

During our stay at Hopkinsville the people were determined to make us have a good time and we had it. On the first night was a banquet and on the next night was a banquet that took nearly all night for the 400 banqueters to get on the outside of—but they got there. It was the principal feature, but the remainder of the time was spent equally as pleasantly in sight-seeing about the town and realizing that Hopkinsville is one of the best towns in the State and is rapidly improving.—Laurie Co. Herald.

This was my first visit to the city of Hopkinsville and it was an agreeable surprise. It undoubtedly the prettiest town in Southern Kentucky and one of the most enterprising and progressive in the State. There is an air of cleanliness and neatness about the place that is a stranger at once. The streets are wide and beautifully paved; the side-walks are all first-class; the business houses are nearly all new and of modern design.—Elizabethtown News.

The Association met in Hopkinsville, and it is unnecessary to say, was royally entertained by the citizens of that city. Hopkinsville is said to be one of the best three towns—Madisonville, Paducah and being the other two—in Kentucky from a business standpoint, and we can testify that it stands equally as well from a scenic and hospitable point of view.—Morganfield Sun.

The recent meeting of the Kentucky Press Association was one of the most pleasant gatherings ever held by the members of the press of this State. The citizens of Hopkinsville welcomed the members to that delightful little city on Tuesday and at night gave a banquet in honor of their guests. The visitors were driven in carriages over the city and shown the points of interest about the place during the afternoon of Tuesday.—Hartford Herald.

The Kentucky Press meeting at Hopkinsville was a great occasion from a social as well as an intellectual standpoint.—Cadiz Telephone.

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association began last Monday at Hopkinsville and wound up Sunday at Atlanta, Georgia. It was the most enjoyable meeting that has been held for a long time. The social features of the stay in Hopkinsville were the grand ball Monday evening and a banquet Tuesday evening.—Bullitt Pioneer.

The good people of Hopkinsville did the handsomest thing by the Kentucky Press Association. As the Mayor of the city expressed it, they threw open their doors to the newspaper people and showed the keys away. The festivities of the occasion were opened with a ball; then came a ride around the city in carriages, and a visit to various points of interest. Among the places visited was Bethel college, a Baptist institution for the education of young ladies. Here refreshments were served by the young lady pupils. A business meeting of the Association followed by a banquet, with speech-making and music.—Georgetown Times.

At Hopkinsville we received the cordial welcome for which these estimable people have ever been noted. Nothing was there left undone to make the fleeting hours full of happy recollections.—Elkton Progress.

Hopkinsville, that thriving little city of Southern Kentucky, had opened her gates to the press boys, and on Monday the hospitable citizens stood with outstretched arms to receive the visitors as they arrived and bided them take all in sight and, if necessary, ask for more. There were many pleasurable features connected with the two-days' stay at Hopkinsville, chief among them the ball on Monday night at Hotel Latham, headquarters of the association, at which was gathered the beauty and chivalry of that and other cities of the State.—Bowling Green Courier.

Hopkinsville is a thriving and pretty city of 8,000 or 10,000 population—according to who you ask. It is located in the heart of the dark tobacco country, and handles 15,000 hogheads of the weed. Next to tobacco, what is the chief industry of the country contiguous to this city. The country of Christian producing this year something in the neighborhood of 500,000 bushels of wheat. Tobacco factories, tobacco stemmings, wagon and buggy works are the main manufacturing enterprises of the town. Hopkinsville enjoys the distinction of having the best hotel in Kentucky. The Hotel Latham, built by capital in the main contributed by Mr. Latham, a former citizen of that place, is a hotel that Lexington, Covington, Newport, or for that matter, Louisville might well be proud. The citizens of Hopkinsville did themselves proud in entertaining the boys. They furnished the band and went it on to Atlanta with the crowd, and other good things. In fact the entire visit was a triumphal procession.—Williamstown Courier.

Tuesday evening the guests were taken over the city in carriages and shown all the principal places of interest. At Bethel Female College they were served with luncheon about fifty of the prettiest white aproned school girls on earth waiting upon the guests. This was absolutely delightful. We forgot all about the cold reserve, Wat Harlan and Democratic success, and let our heart and eyes right out after these pretty maidens. We could not get for looking at them; they were more delicious than the delightful refreshments they served.—Guthrie Vidette.

The newspaper men who attended the annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association on Tuesday returned home deeply impressed with the hospitality extended by every one with whom they came in contact. At Hopkinsville, where the meeting of the Association was held, the citizens, with Charley Meacham, of the Kentuckian, and Will Wilgus, postmaster and one of the clearest fellows in the world, as the leading spirits, fied with each other in making the visit of the boys pleasant, leaving nothing undone that would conduce to their happiness and comfort, and placing them all under many obligations for most hospitable treatment. Hopkinsville itself is an up-to-date city, both in appearance and in a business way. In the Hotel Latham it has one of the finest and best appointed hotels in the State, which, with Ward's Military band, a musical organization of great merit, is the pride of the city. Through the generosity of the citizens the band was in attendance during the stay of the Association in Hopkinsville and on Tuesday, in connection with the trip to Atlanta. Hopkinsville only lacks a city water system to make complete her public improvements. This necessary adjunct is now in course of construction and will be completed within a few months.—Danville Advocate.

The Kentucky editors have been enjoying themselves at Hopkinsville this week. The citizens of that city gave the visiting scribes a royal welcome and entertained them handsomely.—Paducah News.

The weather was delightful and our hosts bent every effort to make our stay one long to be remembered for its many pleasant features. To begin with Hopkinsville is now reaching out for a ten thousand population and has already completed one of the finest hotels in the State. The city is lighted with electricity and waterworks are in course of construction. All in all there is no more delightful place in Kentucky and this is due largely to the generosity, intelligence and refinement of its people.—Farmers Home Journal.

The meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Hopkinsville, Atlanta, etc. last week was the most delightful trip the Association has had for years, and of which a full account will be given next week. Owing to urgent business duties and the demand for space in this issue the account had to be held over until next week.—Warsaw Independent.

The Kentucky Press Association held the annual session of 1895 at Hopkinsville, September 25 and 26, and the "Pearl City of the Kentucky" acquitted herself handsomely. On Monday night the festivities began with a grand ball at Hotel Latham.—Bowling Green Democrat.

Hopkinsville was indeed a revelation to many of the visitors. Few knew that it is so large or so flourishing. It is a beautiful place, delightfully situated in the midst of one of the most lovely and fertile regions of the State, and is a center of wealth and culture. There are many large stores; numerous handsome business houses, residences, and public buildings. The churches are especially handsome, and so are the school buildings. The public schools of the city are her glory and her pride; they rank second to those of no other city in the State.—Carrollton Democrat.

Just here I want to say that Hopkinsville is one of the fairest business cities in the State, with an enterprising and progressive population of some 8,000, who have so greatly improved the place that we scarcely recognize it after an absence of 22 years. The streets are lighted with electricity, most of the residences with gas, and a system of waterworks is now being constructed. All the streets are well paved with macadam and have nice brick sidewalks, only one short street in the town being deficient in the latter respect. Headed by Mayor Debauey the entire population did all in their power to render our stay pleasant and agreeable.—Frankfort Roundabout.

Monday evening was the reception and ball. The least that can be said about it is that it was pleasing and attractive to all. Tuesday morning the business meeting was held at the opera house, and from there they adjourned to complete the business part in Atlanta. The great occasion at Hopkinsville was the banquet on Tuesday evening.—Hancock Clarion.

The recent meeting of the Kentucky Press Association at Hopkinsville and the trip to Atlanta, with a short stop at Nashville and Chattanooga was one of the most pleasant in the history of the association. It was not our pleasure to do Hopkinsville to the full but we were there long enough, however, to make us feel sorry for having missed the superb hospitality extended by the good citizens and members of the local press, of that beautiful and enterprising city.

Hopkinsville has grown wonderfully in the last ten years and is now one of the best cities of its class in the state. It has one of the handsomest hotels—The Latham—in three states, electric lights, and tobacco market second only to Louisville.—Breckinridge News.

Your dollars will walk with a majestic stride of importance at the old Fair Ground sale to-day at 3 o'clock.

HOPKINSVILLE MARKET.

Reported Oct. 9, '96, by J. H. Eggleston, of Alfred Lewis & Co., local dealers.

The offering this week was the same in condition as last weeks. Nothing of any merit was on sale, and the offerings were the smallest this week of the season, and was the leading feature. I quote prices unchanged from last week. The new crop is about cured up, and some of the farmers who expect to move are seeking buyers, but this far have not been of any value. What little I have seen shows considerable "house burn" and lacks oil and gum, on account of being too much crowded in the barn. The lack of house room was the cause of a large per cent. of the tobacco having frost. However, there is no cause to fear as there will be plenty of good useful tobacco in the crop.

There will be more tobacco prized by the farmers this year than for years back, as the farmers are afraid of the storm.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know

that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Picher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Picher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proved to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Picher is on every wrapper.

A NOBLEMAN IN KANSAS.

He is Devoting His Life and Fortune to a Good Work.

A Quaker Little Englishman Who Has Created the Globe Nine Times—Advancing Funds for the Education of Two Hundred Girls.

One would hardly seek in droughty, burned Kansas an English nobleman, and especially a nobleman who has forsaken his ancestral home for the sake of saving the souls of those who are trying to save their bodies, says the New York Times. And yet he is here, in the person of Sir Robert Norville, a jolly little round-bodied man, who, having climbed the globe nine times, has created his mission to labor with this people as a minister in the Christian church, or Church of the Disciples. Sir Robert Norville has undertaken the education of some one thousand and two hundred girls in addition to his other self-imposed duties, advancing the money that is necessary to carry them through the church school in Illinois, where he sends them. He does not make a gift of the money, merely loaning it, to be paid back as the recipients of his generosity can find the means in later years. He usually exacts one-fourth the first year after the education of the girls is completed, and one-fourth yearly thereafter. This money is then used again for the same purpose.

Incidentally, he aids in building up weak churches, a work that he finds most difficult at this time among a people struggling with poverty, brought about by repeated crop failures. But a few, ever since he lectured in this state, once a prosperous little town of one hundred souls, situated in the heart of what has been called the "Great West." Kansas, twenty years ago there were in Udale twenty general merchandise stores, and there were all the evidences of prosperity. To-day the population of that town numbers nearly seventy-five souls, who are the patrons of the one store and the one bake shop remaining. Empty buildings attest to the faith that once entered into the makeup of Kansas who so largely live upon hopes, even in the arid portion of the state.

At one time there were two banks at Udale to excite the cupid of the freebooters of Indian territory, but a few miles distant; now there are no banks, nor is there need for any, for money has practically disappeared. In such an unpromising place Sir Robert Norville found himself booked for a lecture, which he delivered to the few remaining people, too poor and too despondent to move away. After his lecture he made an appeal for funds to aid a struggling church, offering to supplement the meagre might receive by the gift of an equal sum. To his surprise he received fifteen dollars and thirty-five cents, to which he added a like amount, and bestowed the purse upon the struggling church he was aiding.

This quaker character invariably pays all his own expenses, never accepting a cent in aid for his personal use. His signs public notice, saying he is serving his Master, who has brought him out of severe trials and troubles.

For two years his labors have been in the counties comprising what is known as the southern tier, continually passing from one community to another, aiding a church, or sending a girl to Illinois to complete her education and prepare herself for a life of self-support.

The longing to again circle the globe has come upon him with full force, and he is closing up his preparatory to another move. This time he will leave Kansas and return to take up his task after visiting San Francisco, Australia, England and New York. He says this will be his last trip around the world, which will take him about a year to complete, when he will take up his work in this state again.

In appearance he is as poverty-stricken as those among whom he labors, and yet his check at the banks in this city shows thousands of dollars. He declined to talk of his life in the old country, simply admitting that his family rank high, but invariably adds that he has held no communication with them for years. It is certain that he receives large remittances directly from London, but little of which is ever expended upon himself.

MOTHER'S STEADY NERVE.

Her Boy in Great Danger on the Parapet of a Roof Garden.

Only four persons saw it, but it was a sight those four will not forget while life lasts. Not more than a fortnight ago a woman who lives in Georgetown, Md., went to spend a day with a friend in an enormously tall apartment house, near the Washington Post. She brought her little three-year-old son with her. It was a hot day, and the two women with the boy went up to the roof garden.

Something distracted the mother's attention for a moment, and at that moment the baby had clambered to a chair, thence to a rustic table, and as the mother turned was just walking along the parapet's edge of the sickening height, laughing and waving his hands. Nobody knows how long it was. It seemed a lifetime. The mother dared not approach, for at every movement on her part the venturesome little midge ran away and called her to catch him. He would not be coaxed to come down, but finally he yielded to a bribe and climbed down.

And did the mother faint? Well, no, she didn't; her hair didn't turn white, either. She simply took the little boy into her arms without a word. She held him close to her for a long time, and then—well, she turned him over her knee and spanked him.

A Florida Incident.

W. A. Robert, of Tallahassee, was sitting on his veranda the other afternoon, reading, when the faint echo of a whistle was heard in the distance. An instant afterward the ball took a piece out of his forehead and lodged itself in the wall behind him. It said the shot was fired at a buzz-bow over a quarter of a mile from where Mr. Robert was sitting. —Savannah News.

SLEEPING CAR SOAP.

All That Isn't Stolen Is Made Into Carpet Cleaner.

Four People Can Take Poisons from Millions of Train and Practice Economy—Bona for Hairbrushes.

The train from Nashville was nearing Chicago, and in the smoking compartment of the sleeper "Galata" four passengers—a doctor, a "drummer," a merchant, and a newspaper man—were enjoying the last cigar together.

The porter came in with a tin box about ten inches wide, a foot high, and fourteen inches long. "Say, Joe, is that your safety deposit box, where you carry your tips?" asked the doctor.

"No, sah; dat's my 'guilpnet box,' answered the porter.

"Equipment box," repeated the drummer, interrogatively.

"Yes, sah; where I carries my 'guilpnet'—the things we use in the car," said the porter.

"Let's look at that box," suggested the merchant, who was of an inquisitive nature.

"Certainly, sah," said the porter, opening the box. "In these little racks in the lid are six combs, six whisk-brooms, four rolls of manilla paper, ten cakes of soap, ten boxes of matches, six glass tumblers, one piece of chambray skin, a combination berth and gas key, a screw-driver, a pair of lamp shears, and a comb and brush for my own personal use."

"But you have only nine cakes of soap here, and four of them are partly used," remarked the doctor.

"Yes, there was one cake short in the ladies' lavatory this morning. I hates to say it," continued the porter, with a look of real sorrow on his face, "but men is a heap more honest than women."

"What makes you think so?"

"Well, in the five years I've been running a sleeping car between Chicago and Nashville men haven't taken anything but a box of matches once in awhile; but the women—Lord bless 'em!—they takes most everything; soap, combs, brushes, towels, brooms and glasses."

"Do you have to pay for them?"

"No, for the company knows just how it happens. Unless I saw a woman actually taking the things I couldn't say anything, and if I did, I might strike just the wrong person, and it would cost me my job."

"What becomes of the soap that's been used?"

"No, indeed, the soap helps to pay the dividends on the Pullman stock. It's just by saving little things that poor folks throw away that other men get rich. Every piece of soap, if it isn't bigger than your little finger, has to be returned to the storekeeper. He sends it out to Pullman, where it goes to the factory and is made into stuff for cleaning carpets."

"Are you sure it isn't made up into new cakes of soap and used in the cars?"

"Oh, no, sah; Mr. Pullman would never allow that. The only thing we use again is brushes."

"What brushes?"

"Hair brushes. We used to throw them away, or rather the company did, after they've got used; but now they've got a scheme for making them clean and good as new."

"Is it a patent process?"

"Oh, yes, they just sprinkle powdered borax over the brush, and then hose the brush in water. It takes every particle of dirt out of the brush, and the bristles are left white as new. They are not quite so stiff, but they are treated with borax."

The Pullman company, after cleaning the brush with borax, sandpapers and varnishes the backs. Three of the ten brushes in my box have been cleaned that way, and nobody would ever know it. If I hadn't told you, just remember this, and don't throw away a good hair brush when you can take five cents' worth of borax and a little water and make it good as new," and the porter locked his last tip as the train rolled into the Dearborn street station.—Inter Ocean.

Ladies' Cycle Parade in England.

A "ladies' cycle parade" the other day at Seaton Carve, England, was arranged by Lady Londonderry, who, with her husband, a very considerable, went to three nursing associations. The village was so thronged on the occasion that, according to a daily paper, "none of the ladies had the opportunity of showing how fast she could ride." Skirts were the fashionable, but by means the only way, and one young person of seventeen ventured forth in coat, breeches and gaiters.

"Sycophant."

A sycophant was once a person who watched the frontiers of Attica to see that no dogs were brought in or carried out without the payment of the proper duty.

Coddish on Toast.

For a quick breakfast dish, when the larder is empty or the butcher didn't send the steak, pick up a bowlful of fish, very fine and light. Put it into a steamer and cover with cold water; let it come to a boil while you rub a tablespoonful of melted butter into a generous one of butter. Turn the fish into a colander and let it drain a moment; turn into the pan again and pour on about half a pint of rich milk—cream is better. Let this reach the boiling point and stir in the flour and butter; cook three or four minutes and turn over squares of nicely browned and buttered bread.

No Symptoms of Erysipelas.

"My mother was in such a condition that the least cut or scratch would cause erysipelas in its worst form. She concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she has not felt any symptoms of erysipelas since she began taking it. She cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. R. C. Smith, Shelbyville, Ky.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion.

Pawpaws are ripening.

"When you have a 'touch of liver' don't take one of the ordinary liver pills, of which there are a dozen kinds in every drug store, but get Hood's Tonic Liver Pills (in Piles). He will give you two medicines, one of which cleans out the system and removes all the secreted bile, while the other purifies the blood, restores strength, builds up the appetite and makes you feel like a new person. Only 25 cents for both—Sample dose free.

BEST FAMILY MEDICINE.

Mr. C. N. Jones, Girard, Ala., says, May 16th, 1895: "I was suffering from Catarrh in the head and was cured by King's Royal Gernetum. We keep it all the time, and believe that it is the best family medicine there is on the market to-day."

It is so pleasant to take that all like it.

It is so harmless that the tenderest babe and most delicate invalids are always safe in using it.

It cures when all else fails. New package, large bottles 108 doses, $1. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

The late Prof. Stephen J. Young, of Bowdoin, was an accomplished linguist. One day he was on a train bound for Bangor to Brunswick, when a conductor who knew him entered his car to ask him to come out to the second-class coach to try and find out where a certain stupid foreigner was going. The conductor had attacked him in all the foreign lingo he could muster, and could get no other response than a stupid stare.

Prof. Young went back to the rear of the train. The passenger sat there looking very much disturbed and bewildered. The professor went at him in Canadian French, then in German, then in the languages of Scandinavia, Italy, Spain and every other country in the face of this green earth. Still the passenger sat "mum as an owl," while the look of bewilderment deepened on his face. The professor was nonplused, and was about turning in defeat to his own car when the man looked wearily out of the window and remarked sadly to himself:

"G'yosh, I wish I was ter hum."

An Astoroot Yankee, and he could speak nothing but English.—Portland (Me.) Argus.

"What's mamma doing?"

"Blowin' up dad's Sunday pants for no reason."

"Where's dad?"

"Takin' a trip around the moon in mammy's sleeves."—N. Y. Tribune.

CURED BY ELECTROPOISE.

A LADY WHO SUFFERED DEATH ALMOST WITH SICK HEADACHE.

It Relieves Neuralgia Pains Every Time and is a Certain Cure for the Exasperating Grip.

I will say that my wife suffered death with sick headache for years and the ElectroPois has almost cured her. It relieves neuralgia pains every time and I do not doubt but that persistent use will entirely cure that trouble. I have used it for over three years on our children of 3 to 6 years of age with most marked success. Thirty-six hours usually resulting in a decided cure.

For myself, I have had occasion to suffer from a violent attack of neuralgia, broke it up completely in four or five hours, an hour's treatment, mostly between the eyes and the temples, and the pain was gone. The next day I did the work. The ElectroPois is the sovereign remedy for all forms of prostration from overwork. Yours very truly, J. B. SANDERS.
